

McCABE IS RECALLED

Claim McCabe Lead With House Second and Webster Third—McCabe Recommended by Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—Senator Shields has made the subject of what his friends deemed a very unjust attack by persons and interests in Nashville upon the recent appointment of Charles M. McCabe, as postmaster in that city. Thus far Senator Shields has declined to make any reply to these attacks, but he still adheres to his determination not to dignify the complaints by any direct answer. Friends of McCabe, however, are quite confident that the senator will, in the future, make a statement covering the facts of the McCabe case as to correct any misapprehension which might have resulted. These facts, as borne out by letters, telegrams and other documentary evidence, are as follows:

More than a year ago the postmaster-general determined not to recommend Mr. Eugene Shannon, the then incumbent, for reappointment to the office of postmaster at Nashville, and this was well understood at Nashville and many good men considered applying, and did apply for the position.

Applications began to be made about last May, and an examination of the several applicants by the civil service commission was ordered by the postmaster-general under an executive order made by the president for his convenience.

Fourteen applicants, including four ex-service men, submitted their claims and took the examination in August, 1935.

In pursuance of the usual practice in such cases, the postmaster-general was sent to Nashville to obtain further information in regard to the character and qualifications of the several applicants, to be considered along with their examinations.

Three Upon Eligible List.

Upon all the evidence thus obtained, the civil service commission proceeded to grade the several applicants, and found only three of them to come within the requirements and entitled to go upon the eligible list, to be certified to the postmaster-general.

Charles M. McCabe received the highest grade, John P. House, the second grade, and Felix Z. Wilson, the third grade.

McCabe would then have received the nomination, it is said, but someone, it is understood for political reasons, filed charges against him which, after full examination, were found to be groundless, and dismissed.

LEOPARD CANNOT CHANGE SPOTS

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Tells the Treachery of Calomel.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury, quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your liver like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your doctor sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely safe and healthy. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

Scott & Bowne, 315 Broadway, N. Y.

About this time Mr. Berry while in Washington, inquired into the matter and made application to the authorities to have the examinations repeated, that another ex-service man might apply and be recommended.

When he returned to Nashville he and others succeeded in getting Mr. Webster, an ex-service man, and who had not been an applicant of consideration becoming one, and who, it has been said, did not in fact desire the office, to file his application and undergo the civil service examination.

Mr. Webster passed such an examination as entitled him to take the third place on the eligible list, superseding Felix Z. Wilson, and that list then stood McCabe, House, and Webster, with grades in the order named.

The postmaster-general recommended Mr. McCabe, and he was appointed on one day and confirmed the next day, in the usual manner and order of procedure.

Civil Service Law

The civil service law does not apply to presidential offices, but the very appointment of Mr. McCabe was a violation of the law, and the constitution gives the right of appointment in such cases to the president, and the congress cannot interfere with the president's right of appointment.

The act of congress under which it was insisted that Mr. Webster should have a preference notwithstanding it was found that he was not so well qualified to discharge the duties of the office as two other applicants, because he was an ex-service man.

That Mr. Webster in making appointments to clerical and other positions in the executive branch of the government in the District of Columbia or elsewhere, preference shall be given to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines, who themselves are not the wives or injured soldiers, sailors and marines, who themselves are not qualified to hold such positions.

This act of congress does not apply to presidential offices, for the same reason that the civil service law can not be applied to the president and the congress cannot interfere with the president's right of appointment.

Therefore, no law or rule was violated by the postmaster-general in recommending the appointment of Mr. McCabe over an ex-service man, nor did the president in nominating him or the senate in confirming him.

If the preference act applied to postmasters to be appointed by the president, it would apply to all appointments from supreme judges down; and no one would, for a moment, consider that such appointments come within either the civil service law or the preference act.

The usual order in all presidential nominations is to refer the nomination to the committee having jurisdiction of them, and the committee can either report, their back immediately, or take such time as it is desired.

It is not unusual for the committee to make the report the same day as the nomination is referred and to have confirmation immediately.

The nomination of Mr. McCabe was duly reported to the senate and referred to the committee on postoffices and post roads, and after a consideration with a majority of that committee, it was reported back to the senate and confirmed on the same day.

This is frequently done where there has been long vacancies, as in this case and in large postoffices.

When Mr. French was appointed postmaster at Memphis Senator Lee was a member of the committee on postoffices and post roads, he had the nomination reported favorably the same day it was sent in by the president (McCabe was over one whole day), and, by unanimous consent, immediately confirmed.

This was also done in the case of W. P. Chandler, postmaster at Knoxville, and John L. Cox, postmaster at Bristol. The postmasters at St. Louis and New Orleans were confirmed on the same day the nominations were sent in by the president.

Activity of Service Men.

There has also been some comment here on the activity of the officers of the American Legion in this matter in connection with section 6 of the charter of the American Legion, which prohibits such activity.

The organization shall be non-political and, as an organization, shall not promote the candidacy of any person seeking public office.

There have been many day excitements or interest in Washington in reference to the Nashville postoffice, as there was nothing extraordinary in fact he was an ex-service man.

The information in Washington is that Mr. McCabe has been committed to the committee.

Stomach Was Out of Order and Head Ached, So Kentucky Man Took Black-Draught.

"It Cured Me," He Says.

Nancy, Ky.—Mr. Marion Holcomb, of this place, says: "For quite a long while I suffered with stomach trouble. I would have pains and a heavy feeling after my meals, also a most disagreeable taste in my mouth. If I ate anything with butter, oil or grease, I would spit it up. I began to have regular sick headaches."

"I had used pills and tablets, but after a course of these I would be constipated. It just seemed to tear my stomach up. I found they were no good at all for my trouble."

"I heard Theford's Black-Draught recommended very highly, so I began to use it. It cured me. I keep it in the house all the time. It is the best liver medicine made. I do not have sick headaches or stomach trouble any more."

When suffering from headache, constipation, stomach or liver trouble, try the old and well-recommended, purely vegetable, Theford's Black-Draught.

Just as Black-Draught brought relief to Mr. Holcomb, so it also has to thousands of others, and should help you, too.

Mrs. M. L. Morgan, 268 Baxter Ave., Pays Glowing Tribute to Merits of New Remedy—After Enforced Idleness of Two Months, on Account of Illness, She Returns to Post—Pepgen Indorsed by Thousands as Remarkable Medicine.

"I surely appreciate being able to get sound and refreshing sleep. For I know I would not have been able to do that for me." This is the significant statement made by Mrs. M. L. Morgan, who lives at 268 Baxter avenue.

Mrs. Morgan is a young widow who is employed by the Shelby Riscuit company on Colorado street. According to her statement she had not been able to work for two months at the time that she began to take Pepgen, and the benefit she derived from this medicine made it possible for her to return to her employment. She says:

"My system was run-down generally. I was having severe nervous headaches. My appetite was very poor. My blood was thin. I had no energy. I felt tired all the time. I could not get rested sleep at night. Many times I would lie awake half the night. In the morning I felt like I didn't care whether I got up or not. I kept getting worse until finally I had to give up work."

"When I began taking Pepgen I had not worked for two months. Pepgen made a big difference immediately. It increased my appetite and took away that feeling of tiredness. I haven't had a headache since I began taking Pepgen."

"I sleep as soundly as a tired child. I go to bed at about 8 o'clock, go right to sleep and don't wake up until morning."

"I was able to go back to work in a very short time after I began with this medicine. It certainly proved itself a wonderful medicine for me and I believe that anyone who is in bad health will get good results from it. I certainly would recommend that they try it."

A glance at the columns in the daily newspapers will reveal the names of scores of Memphis people who endorse Pepgen. These are from people who are grateful for the relief that Pepgen has given them.
